

Environmental Overview

Taft's Environmental Practice Group provides nationally recognized litigation, counseling, and dispute resolution services for our clients related to local, state, regional, and federal environmental laws (e.g., CAA, CWA, CERCLA, EPCRA, FIFRA, RCRA, TSCA), as well as emerging issues. The Group's practice spans civil and criminal law, environmental insurance, toxic tort suits, real estate/Brownfields transactions, sustainability, defense of occupational exposure claims, and administrative proceedings. Our relationships with our clients are longstanding, enabling us to anticipate our client's need to adroitly manage and resolve environmental matters associated with their business, technology, legislative, policy, administrative, or litigation matters.

Taft's Environmental Practice Group strives to provide clients with a highly sophisticated approach which meets their objectives in a cost-effective manner. Six of the attorneys in the Environmental Litigation Practice area are recognized by The Best Lawyers in America, two are recognized by Chambers USA: Leading Business Lawyers-Environmental, two received national Trial Lawyer of the Year Awards, one is a Certified Hazardous Materials Manager, Master Level, and one was formerly with the USEPA. Focused and practical are two words which best define the Taft Environmental Practice.

Taft's environmental attorneys are contributing authors to Environmental Law Insight blog, providing updates and analysis on a wide range of environmental law topics.
